

On July 21, 2021, we held our first Turkish lesson with local volunteers. As you can imagine, our first topic was the alphabet. Latin alphabet is used in Turkey, but there are six different letters specific to Turkish. They had a hard time pronouncing the letters, but after trying a few times, they were able to say it comfortably.

When I said that the Turkish language is spoken in 26 countries in the world, everyone was very surprised and said that they did not know before. The fact that the structure of the Turkish language is agglutinative seemed very different to them. They immediately memorized some of the basic daily usage words in Turkish, such as "Good morning, good evening ..." and everyone said, "See you in Turkish when the lesson is over."
